specter, and this may be the reason that there is never any fine opposition to any pattern fashion sets up. Seneca in his day declared what were vices had become fashions, and now we see what is supremely ridiculous elevated in the name of style.

BOOTH'S GREAT ARMY.

On the 10th of April General Ballington Booth, the originator and commander of the Salvation Army, will be eighty years old, and the event will be celebrated in all parts of the world where an army post has been established; and to properly signalize the event it is proposed to found a University of Salvation, with branches in London, New York and Chicago, for the training of workers for all branches of the work at a cost of $5,000,000. This great religious work is really cosmopolitan and upon it the sun never sets. General Booth, the organizer, still directs all his works—the work of enlightening the minds of the poor and needy in every land—of teaching the freedom of the soul and speaking the words of hope which carry a blessing to every creature. On that day the prayers of 50,000,000 people bound together by this great work in 50 different languages will rise to heaven in thanksgiving for their great leader. What mortal man ever lived to realize more from his personal convictions and religious energy?

SANFORD AND HIS CREW.

It is some time since Sanford, the organizer of the "Holy Ghost and Users" of Shiloh, Me., has been heard from, but The Bulletin learns from a copy of the Stock Journal of Sydney, N. S. W., which blew into its sanctum from the States in Australia waters at Christmas time, which said that his yacht came in without a pilot and went out without a pilot, and the passengers and crew wanted to be let alone. They told nobody about themselves and would not have allowed any one to know a thing about them, but for the fact that they have quarantine regulations in the harbor and a custom house, and the doctor and the boat house officers had to board the boat.

And this is what the paper says about him: "This man Sanford was educated for a person, but his imagination was too vivid and when he found that there were 200,000,000 more heathen now than when Christianity was born, it drove him over the line. He got to work and prayed for power, and got all the farmers of Androsogin to come in with him and build a 'shiloh' on a hill top. "He only started in 1893 and already he owns about three million dollars' worth of property and 4 small fleet of ships, and the yacht Coronet is one of the fleet. He means to colonize in the Holy Land and do great things, and he has stacks of followers, and there you are! He is doing a cruise of the world just now, and you can't tell where the man will turn up next. But it just shows what queer people there are in this world. If he isn't crazy, I am, but who is to say which is right? It is a funny old world, and no mistake!"

EDITORIAL NOTES.

When it comes to eating up money the modern Dreadnoughts have the lead, and promise to keep it.

Happy thought for today: The man who has to take Caudle lectures on the trolley should sue for an injunction.

The great corporations do not attempt to disguise the fact that they have no love or respect for the Sherman bill.

Japan is showing that she knows how to keep expenses down by cutting out $175,000,000 from the appropriations.

The news that the crop of bluefish is going to be unusually large forebodes considerable sport and reasonable prices.

The Count Zeppelin airship has had a mad run over Germany in a gain, but it did not get wrecked, although out of control.

Japan does not care to arbitrate her differences with China, for she feels capable of forcing a satisfactory settlement herself.

Colonel Bryan says that he is growing younger every day. This indicates that he is sticking to the 25-cent-a-plate banquet idea.

A Vermont summoned for jury service had never heard of the murder or the murderer. He was all right for an unbiased opinion.

There is a general conviction that if the revision of the tariff is not right, President Taft will not hesitate to disapprove the whole business.

A woman suffrage bill has passed the senate of Wisconsin, but it doubtless realized that it will never pass the house. The good senators.

About the only place where automobiles cannot exceed the speed limit is in the legislature; there they have to go at the old-time gait.

With icebergs 140 feet high and 400 feet long in the Atlantic waiting away, it does seem as if ice ought to be just a hundredth of a mill cheaper.

The St. Louis person who has cured a case of typhoid fever by faith should apply it to typhoid buttons in the contribution box and see how it works.

After the Spanish war tax on tobacco was removed, the package makers forgot to restore its original size and made three hundred millions thereby.

It is announced that elderly more congressmen have decided to decline to speak upon the tariff bill. The passage of a good bill would beat 1,000 good speeches.

President Taft shocked the Washingtonians by putting a pretty Jersey cow on the White House lawn, although it gave a new and artistic touch to the landscape.

A New York man admits that he has not taken a bath for ten years, but he is not regarded as a menace to any health but his own, which is not so very bad, although his atmosphere must be.

President Eliot condemns the two-branch city government as obsolete, and a way which favors corruption.

THE MAN WHO TALKS.

This is well said: "Learn from your mistakes, but don't cry over them. We best reduce the past by forgetting it." This was said for your benefit and mine. Get a grip on it, for by so doing you get a grip upon yourself. That is the best of a school of experience, and all of us in some direction have met with indifferent success; and there we have found our disappointments, and there we should have taken our cue. Then we have looked back with regret instead of forward in hope. We're a great deal of people at best, but we're going to get there because the Supreme has willed that we should. I do not wonder that some people believe in the transmigration of souls, or that the Japanese think that 27 heavens are necessary in which to school and perfect the soul. Man goes to school in many ways, but the best is the way of God. Do not forget that those live longest who live most and those live best who forget self and live for others.

"The late Edward T. Clapp said he was the one who gave the name to 'The Man Who Talks' to Norwich in 1899, when it was put upon the arch—and what reason is there to doubt his word? He was in Australia waters at Christmas time, which said that his yacht came in without a pilot and went out without a pilot, and the passengers and crew wanted to be let alone. They told nobody about themselves and would not have allowed any one to know a thing about them, but for the fact that they have quarantine regulations in the harbor and a custom house, and the doctor and the boat house officers had to board the boat."

It is passing strange that we have such a poor opinion of the under dog. When without him for contrast the under dog would lose more than half his glory. We are constantly being told that every thing is a relative in this world, and to relative truth, which may appear to be truth today and so proven to be false tomorrow. The under dog is the under dog because it is the under dog, and it is the under dog because it is the under dog. There couldn't be great bridges and skyscrapers without him. He gets but $1.50 a day but his work is the most important in the world. The under dog gives us the best of us. Don't you think that he doesn't, and we are all so interdependent, and that we can't do without him? The under dog is the under dog because it is the under dog, and it is the under dog because it is the under dog. There couldn't be great bridges and skyscrapers without him.
